For Canada

Arms Costs Kept High By Crises

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence expenditures, which account for 40 per cent of the federal budget, will be of the same order this year as last—around $1,775,000,000—informants say.

If anything, there will probably be a slight cut of three per cent; $50,000,000.

In mid-1956, the international situation was looking fairly rosy, comparatively speaking, and officials were giving thought to the possibility of substantial paring of the defence budget.

Then followed the Middle East and Hungarian crises and the apparent revival of Stalinism in Russia. Those events discouraged major cuts. When it was time in the late fall for the defence department to submit its 1957 - 58 estimates to treasury board it asked for roughly the same amount as for 1956-57.

Defence Minister Campney has tried to break the news to the public as gently as possible that defence spending is going to remain high in the forseeable future.

The RCAF plans to form three new jet-interceptor squadrons for home defence and officials estimate the project may cost $100,000,000.

The army plans to form a new armored regiment and will have to equip it with tanks. It also is working on a new tracked carrier and a flying truck. Maintenance costs in the navy are likely to go up with acquisition of new ships and planes.

For Insurance

Rail Men Trudge The Rails

PENTICTON (CP) — Two CPR section men, unemployed due to the firemen's strike, walked more than 30 miles to file unemployment insurance claims here.

The two section men were stationed at Cookson, B.C., north of here.

When the radio informed them they could register for unemployment insurance, they walked the railroad track six miles to McCulloch, then 20 miles to Kelowna. They caught a ride in Kelowna which brought them here.

The trip took from 8 a.m. to midnight Thursday.

Guest Checks on Cooks

Making sure that Mrs. G. C. Wilson's eight cooks didn't spoil the broth for the annual Salvation Army dinner for senior citizens last night is 87-year-old James W. Pimlott, the oldest guest. Mrs. Wilson is secretary of the army's home league. Judging by the expressions, the broth was fine.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Cabinet Meets Monday

Ottawa Pondering Laws To Deal with Rail Strike

Legislators' Views May Decide Policy

OTTAWA (CP) Federal officials Friday were reported considering legislation to deal with the crippling strike of CPR firemen.

But informants said there has been no decision either on the type of possible legislation or whether it actually would be introduced at the new parliamentary session that opens Jan. 8.

One authority speculated that the cabinet might wait to sound out the views of its Commons supporters from across the country.

CABINET TALKS

Any decision could come Monday, when the cabinet is due to resume a meeting it started Thursday on Prime Minister St. Laurent's return from a holiday in Quebec City.

There was speculation that Mr. St. Laurent might intervene personally with the disputing CPR and Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC).

At the moment, one source said, no new formula for cracking the impasse has been drafted by federal experts since Trade Minister Howe — then acting prime minister — and Labor Minister Gregg tried unsuccessfully last Saturday and Monday to effect a solution.

HAUNTING WORDS

OTTAWA (BUP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent's reported statement that "there must not" be a railway strike came back yesterday to haunt him.

Conservative leader John Diefenbaker said that if he did make the statement, it would contribute to an adamant attitude by both the Canadian Pacific Railway management and the striking railway Firemen and Enginemen's Brotherhood.

Although his office later denied it, the Prime Minister was quoted as saying, "There must not, in fact cannot, be a railway strike" in a telephone interview on Dec. 27.

VERA HULFORD

Happy to escape with no injuries is 12-year-old Vera Hulford, 2808 Rock Bay, knocked from her bicycle by a hit-and-run car at Hillside and Bridge, while delivering papers last night. She landed in a mud puddle (she's holding mud-covered coat), "which was probably the best thing," said her father, Stan Hulford. "It cushioned the fall."

No Policy

Ferries Keep Going

CPR coast ferries continued to shuttle between Vancouver and the Island yesterday as labor leaders for the third day in a row were unable to hammer out a definite policy which could cut the ferry service.

A special meeting of the B.C. Federation of Labor's executive council in Vancouver yesterday failed to remove the big question mark which has hung over the steamship service since CPR firemen launched their train strike Wednesday.

After the meeting the council said it "contemplates" a clear-cut definition for the guidance of other trade unionists concerned with the picket lines.

The firemen received little more from the waterfront unions than moral support.

The council said it had "set in motion" the full mobilization of trade union support in the province.

The strike cancelled an additional service in Victoria yesterday when Canadian Pacific offices were closed.

Canada, U.S.

Defence Harmony Reached

SEATTLE (CP)—Defence Minister Campney of Canada said Friday night there is complete agreement between Canada and the United States on policy and plans for the joint defence of North America.

He told the Seattle branch of the English Speaking Union:

"Harmonization of the post-war defence policies of Canada and the United States has continued steadily and progress has been such that for some time now the general staffs of our two countries work in complete accord and have entire agreement on doctrine, plans and preparation for the joint defence of our homelands.

MORE URGENCY

"The advent of thermo-nuclear weapons of incredible destructive power combined with the development of long-range jet bombers to deliver such weapons has lent ever-increasing urgency to the joint-defence capability of this continent. And our two countries have been moving rapidly and effectively to meet this transcending danger."

Vast Expansion Plan To Double Gas Lines

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

To meet huge new demands for natural gas in the Pacific area the Canadian-owned Westcoast Transmission Co. yesterday announced plans which will enable it to more than double its throughput capacity.

Frank McMahon, president of Westcoast, and hero of a long drawn-out fight to sell Canadian gas to the United States, disclosed plans for an extra $100,000,000 expenditure on pipeline facilities.

These will increase, by installation of new pumping facilities, the throughput of the main Westcoast line from Fort St. John in northern B.C. to Vancouver and the international border, from a maximum capacity of 400,000,000 cubic feet a day to 600,000,000 cubic feet, a 50 per cent increase.

This project will cost $55,000,000.

In addition Westcoast intends to build a second 30-inch pipeline from the new Savanna Creek gasfield in the southwest corner of Alberta, near the B.C. border, to communities in the Kootenays and then to the U.S. border at Kingsgate, north of Spokane.

NEW FEEDER

This new line will be 174 miles long, and it will provide a new feeder into the United States gas distribution system operated by Pacific Northwest Pipeline. It will also provide B.C. communities in the southeast corner of the province with natural gas that up to now looked like being denied them.

The gas from the Savanna Creek field will be fed into the Spokane spur of the main Pacific Northwest Pipeline which runs from the San Juan Basin in Colorado to the Puget Sound area and connects with Westcoast's No. 1 pipeline at Sumas on the international border.

In this way Canadian gas can be fed at will through valves either from the Peace River or from southern Alberta into the power-hungry western states.

Westcoast's original contract to buy natural gas from the Savanna Creek area is for 125,000,000 cubic feet from Phillips Petroleum of Canada, which is the second largest participant in the field.

The biggest with 67 per cent interest is Husky Oil and Refining which has not yet signed a contract to supply the new pipeline, but may conceivably do so in the near future.

The Savanna Creek field is a comparatively recent discovery and it is specially interesting in that it is the highest gas field known in the world. The wells are being drilled over 8,000 feet above sea level.

IMRE NAGY

Deposed Hungarian premier, Imre Nagy, is believed to have left Romania, where he was exiled after the Hungarian revolt, and now may be in the Soviet Union. One theory is that Nagy, a nationalistic Communist ousted from power by Soviet-backed Premier Janos Kadar, is in the Soviet Crimea.

U.S. Bus

Six Dead Feared In Crash

LEXINGTON, Va. (UP) — A Greyhound bus with some 45 passengers smashed into a stalled tractor trailer about eight miles north of here last night and police reported as many as six persons may have been killed.

Officers said one person was known dead. They said five others were believed to have been killed and dozens were injured.

Police said the bus crashed into the rear of a tractor trailer rig loaded with pipe, after the truck had stalled on the road and the truck driver had put out flares.

The bus driver was killed instantly.

Hospital attendants at a Lexington hospital said they did not know how many others were dead or how many had been injured.

Islander Features Churchill

Story of the early life of Sir Winston Churchill starts tomorrow in The Islander, magazine section of the Colonist.

Sir Winston, himself, is the narrator of the tale, told in his usual penetrating and brilliant style.

Also featured in The Islander is another Cecil Clark crime story, this one about a fire-bug on the loose at the Essondale Mental Hospital.

Defence Minister's Wife Lands Big Army Contract

WASHINGTON (UP) — Two Congressional sub-committees yesterday opened preliminary investigation into an $884,150 army contract awarded to a firm headed by the wife of Assistant Defence Secretary Robert Tripp Ross.

They will determine whether a "conflict of interests" is involved.

The inquiries started as the defence department made available records showing that more than $5,300,000 in military contracts are held by firms in which Mrs. Ross and her brother, H. D. Wynn, Knoxville, Tenn., are interested.

Ross says he severed all connections with the various firms in February, 1952, when he was elected to Congress from Queens County, N.Y.

Investigations were touched off by the disclosure that the army last November awarded an $884,150 contract for 249,000 pairs of men's trousers to Wynn Enterprises, Inc., of New York and Knoxville. Mrs. Claire Wynn Ross, wife of the assistant defence secretary, is president of the firm.

Doctors Defer Mass 'Walkout'

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's 40,000 National Health Service doctors deferred Friday night for at least a month a threatened mass withdrawal from the socialized medical system pending further talks with the government.

The deferment was decided upon at a two-hour meeting between Health Minister Robert H. Turton and a doctors' delegation. The delegates discussed their claim for a 20 per cent blanket salary increase.

Turton concluded by inviting the delegation to meet him again shortly.

General practitioners, specialists and other medical men have been organizing throughout the country to stage a mass walkout if their salary demands fail. They argue they have received no increase since 1951 despite higher costs of living.

Only 700 of Britain's medical men are outside the National Health Service, which provides free treatment and hospital care. The system is financed by weekly contributions deducted from every wage envelope and by government grants.

The health ministry estimates that the present average salary of a GP is £2,222 ($6,221).

The British Medical Journal, like friendly partners in a great official organ of the BMA, says enterprise."

in its issue published Friday that Britain's doctors have "lost all trust and confidence in their monopoly employer."

The Lancet, another medical journal, says the government ministers "continue to look like arbitrary employers rather than oasis and collect fees.

Sir Russel Brain, president of the Royal College of Physicians, led the four-man delegation to the health ministry.

The doctors plan, if they quit the health service, to deal with all their patients on a private

After Two Months

Hungary's Rebels Keep on Fighting

BUDAPEST (UP)—The government-controlled press admitted yesterday that freedom fighters are still in action—two months after Russian tanks rolled into Budapest to crush the Hungarian revolt.

The report appeared in Nep Akarat, the organ of the trade unions. It supported informal reports that bullet-damaged cars and trucks have been arriving here from the provinces for repair.

The newspaper said small armed groups "caused disturbances." in Transdanubia.

"A vile gang was rendered harmless in recent weeks in Bakonybel," the newspaper said. "Now a further group has appeared.

"Apart from this," the paper added, "the police experienced rather hectic days at Varpalota."

Car-Ferrying Attempt

Ends in Near Tragedy

Two Almost Drown as Quadra Barge Sinks

Special to the Colonist

CAMPBELL RIVER—Two Quadra Island men escaped drowning yesterday when a barge carrying a car sank in about 30 feet of water in Discovery Passage.

Robert Allen of Heriot Bay was bringing his new car for a 2,000-mile checkup at Campbell River on a barge operated by Lawrence Foort when the mishap occurred after two attempts to get the car on the landing barge.

Allen is a non-swimmer, but Foort climbed onto the cab of the barge and, standing neck-deep in water, held Allen up until a group of Indians rowed out and rescued both men.

Quadra Island residents, incensed by the near-drowning, have renewed their countless requests for a car ferry service for the 200 car owners on Quadra Island.

Allen first tried to board the landing barge with his car at the Quathiaski Cove wharf. The only way to board the barge is to take a run at it and hope for the best.

The first run wasn't successful and the car poised half on the barge and half on the dock. The tide was rising, making things more difficult, but a number of residents helped pull it back onto the dock.

The barge was then moved to the wharf at the Cape Mudge Indian village, where it was thought it would be easier to load.

There the car was driven successfully onto the barge, but the tailgate of the barge dropped and the barge filled up with water as the tide rose, eventually sinking.

Car and barge were raised from the water yesterday but Allen was in bed recovering from his icy dunking.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A GROUP of paintings by six Victoria artists will take to the high seas when HMCS Ontario leaves Esquimalt for Hawaii and points east.

Gunboat culture, says [illegible] art teacher and art critic, who arranged the travelling show at the suggestion of the Ontario's commanding officer, Capt. R. R. Welland.

In his light-hearted way, Mr. Emery indicates that the flag of modern Canadian art could be planted on foreign beaches as the Union Jack, the Tricolor, etc., were planted in past days by those nasty colonial powers.

The enemies of modern art are a notoriously wrathful crowd, but they might cool down when the six-inch guns of the Ontario are trained on them.

The mind conjures up a vignette of a landing-party plunging for the beach under the fire of shore batteries, carrying the works of Jan Zach and Herbert Siebner with them in an armored car.

In fact, however, it won't be necessary to fire on the blighters. Capt. Welland plans to use peaceful methods. The pictures won't leave the ship. The local culture folk will be invited aboard at each port and exposed to the pictures in the captain's day-cabin.

* * *

Conveying art by warship is an impromptu and unofficial plan of Capt. Welland's. He confesses that he isn't highly informed about contemporary painting — just interested. So he won't be acting as a cicerone. Visitors to the ship will have to absorb the message of the pictures without much comment from him.

Herbert Siebner and Jan Zach already have international names. Phyllis Leece, Molly Privett, Virginia Lewis and Sylvia Sutton, their pupils, are on the way.

Now a sample of their works will be conveyed to remote Pacific ports where a number of people have never heard of Canadian art and some have never heard of Canada.

This experiment in "gunboat culture" may (in the long run) help to prevent a war. On the other hand, it may start one. We'll see.

Firemen Needed, Unionists Agree

Two Victoria union leaders last night agreed that firemen were necessary on diesel engines working in railway yards, the basic issue of the CPR strike.

Said Robert Milliken, teamsters business agent: "From the safety angle, I can't see how they can operate a diesel with one man. I can't see how an engineer can see on both sides of his train."

Jack McKenzie, president of the Victoria Labor Council, agreed that two men were necessary for safety.

"What might happen to the train, if something should happen to the engineer and he was alone?" he asked.

He denied there was any "featherbedding" involved.

"It is quite obvious," Mr. McKenzie said, "that if the CPR gets away with eliminating firemen, [illegible] will be the same attempt by the CNR and it will spread across the American railways."

Mr. Milliken opposed government intervention in the strike. "They should keep their noses out," he said.

"If the government intervenes," he said, "being an election year, they are going to put their neck out, and that's what they are scared of."

ANCIENT RELICS

A nest of fossilized bird eggs found in Nebraska in 1956 has been estimated 40,000,000 years old.

They'll Rebuild

Mrs. and Mrs. Ken Rainey, whose new home on Kangaroo Road, Metchosin, was totally destroyed by fire last weekend, plan to rebuild on the same site.

They had finished moving the last of their furniture into the house only a few hours before it burned. Mr. Rainey built the house himself over more than 2½ years.

A kitchen shower for Mrs. Rainey last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Potts, Tavanne Road, brought clothing, kitchen utensils, blankets and sheets.

The young couple, together with their two-month-old daughter, Darlene, are staying with Mr. Rainey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rainey, Kangaroo Road.

Construction Slumps In Oak Bay, Saanich

Oak Bay and Saanich followed the downward trend in construction figures set by the city in 1956, dropping the Greater Victoria total more than $1,000,000 below the 1955 figure of $18,592,150.

Only Esquimalt showed a gain—but it was a big one. The smallest of area municipalities not only broke its 1955 record of $1,028,529, but nearly doubled it in 1956 with $1,957,256 in permits issued during the year.

Oak Bay's total for the year was $2,562,818, a drop of $140,945 from the pace of a year ago. Of the 1956 total, $1,798,100 was the value of residential construction with 126 houses built or started during the year, compared with 108 in 1955. Five apartment blocks were built and two conversions to apartments, along with a $9,000 addition to Monterey School and a $6,000 addition to Oak Bay High School.

Total construction value figure in Saanich fell from $6,369,310 in 1955 to $5,036,585 the past year with only 991 permits issued in 1956, compared with 1,145 in 1955.

Largest industrial projects in the municipality during the year were a $450,000 warehouse built by Hudson's Bay Company, and a $175,000 Safeway super market.

Victoria's decline, $8,400,548 in 1955 to $7,965,734 in 1956, was attributed to lack of apartment construction and industrial expansion during the year.

Boy Burned Saving Family

WAPELLA, Sask. (BUP)—A 12-year-old Wapella boy was credited yesterday with saving the lives of his father, mother, two brothers and a sister from a flaming farm home Thursday night. His father is in critical condition in hospital at Moosomin, Sask.

Twelve-year-old Donald Ikert woke in the night to find the farm home, five miles east of Wapella, in flames. The young-ster broke a window and threw his brothers and sister out of the inferno into sub-zero cold.

He aroused his mother and and together they found his father overcome by smoke, flames jumping all around. The mother's clothing started to burn about her body, but they managed to drag the father out.

They were all taken to hospital at Moosomin. Donald, 10, year-old Davie, two-year-old Larry and five-year-old Elaine, and their mother were treated for burns and cuts from broken glass, but were not detained in hospital.

Citizens of Moosomin and relatives are donating blood to help save Mr. Ikert. Three doctors took turns during the night and day keeping a vigil over the seriously hurt father.

The home and its contents were completely demolished.

Injuries Serious

Lance Whittaker, 202 Edward, at first thought to have been only slightly injured in a collision New Year's morning, is back in Royal Jubilee Hospital for a fairly long stay.

A second examination disclosed a fracture of one of the bones in the pelvic structure.

Formosa Gets Huge Airport

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The U.S. Embassy announced Thursday a project to build the most modern military airfield in Formosa at an estimated cost of $25,000,000.

The field, to be built for the Chinese Nationalist air force, will be located in Central Formosa.

Bridge Repairs Finished Soon

Underwater repairs to cavities in the piers of Point Ellice Bridge are "progressing well—I should think they will be complete in a month or six weeks," City Engineer James C. Garnett said yesterday.

Divers are working on the second pier of the bridge, having finished the most easterly, and "there is relatively little to do" on the third, Mr. Garnett said.

Final bids on construction of the new Point Ellice Bridge—the bids that will tell how much the new bridge is to cost—are due Jan. 24 and will be opened by council on that day. They will be for the "general" work—construction of the approaches to the bridge, retaining walls, and decking of the bridge.

Accident Driver Convicted

A Victoria driver was found guilty of careless driving in city police court yesterday, the aftermath of an accident last Aug. 1.

Rodney M. Arney, 1140 Government, had pleaded not guilty to the charge, which arose after his car collided with three pedestrians in a crosswalk at Broad and Yates, at 11:50 p.m. on a rainy night.

One of the pedestrians was severely injured.

She was Mrs. Ivy Langton, 807 Mary, who suffered a broken pelvis and other injuries which kept her in hospital for three months. The other two involved, a man and woman, are out of town and could not be located to testify.

Police said Mr. Arney's car, driving east on Yates, had collided with the pedestrians at the west crosswalk on Yates at Broad. Cluster lights were out, and it was raining heavily. Visibility was poor.

Mrs. Langton said she was almost all the way across Yates when hit by the car. She did not see it beforehand.

Mr. Arney and Marguerite Atkinson, a passenger in his car, said the vehicle was going very slowly because of the poor visibility.

Their first indication of trouble was the sight of an umbrella in front of the car.

Magistrate Hall said he accepted the testimony of Mrs. Langton that she was in the pedestrian crosswalk, and added that Arney had failed in his duty to take due and proper care. However, he was giving consideration to the weather and light conditions in setting a fine of $35.

* * *

The sort of accident that could happen to any smoking driver cost a Saanich woman a $35 fine in city court.

Patricia Caldwell Brown, 925 Stafford, pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving, after being involved in an accident at 8:40 a.m. Dec. 19 on Douglas.

She told police that she was driving slowly, but that her cigaret fell into her lap inside her coat. Taking her eyes off the road to seek the cigaret, she did not see a car approaching from the opposite direction.

Total damage in the resulting collision was $500.

When a young Victorian let his younger brother ride his motorcycle, it became costly for both.

Hendryk Wuis, 1192 Fort, was fined $25 for riding a motorcycle without a licence. His older brother, Peter, was fined the same amount for permitting his brother, a minor, to ride the bike without a licence.

Harry Clarke, Nanaimo, was fined $20 when he admitted speeding on Hillside. He was paced at 47 miles an hour.

Garden Notes

From Good Blue To Dirty Pink

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I have had a lot of complaints from readers this past year over the fact that their pet hydrangea bushes which have hitherto borne flowes of a good clean blue—color have suddenly changed and are now producing blooms in a dirty pink shade.

This is a fairly common occurrence, and is an almost sure sign that the soil around the bushes has been given an inadvertent dressing of lime, and had become too alkaline.

DUE TO SALTS

The blue coloring in a hydrangea flower is due to certain salts of aluminum in the soil, and these salts, even when present in plentiful quantities, are not soluble and hence unavailable to the roots when much lime is present.

In effect, the lime locks up the aluminum, holding it so tightly that none is available for the plant. Without aluminum, the coloring of the hydrangea flower changes from a clear blue to pink—only too often, a rather muddy pink.

COMMON ALUM

Lime should never be applied to the soil around a blue hydrangea—unless, of course, you want to turn it pink. If the accident has occurred, and you want to restore your plant to its original condition, the quickest way is to give it a dressing of half a cupful of common alum, dissolved in a gallon of water and applied with a watering can to the soil of the rooting area.

While this will do the trick quickly and easily, I am not entirely happy over the use of alum on the soil. It has been my experience that this chemical has a bad effect on the soil texture, especially on heavy sticky clay soil, making it even stickier and more clinging.

DIG IN MOSS

On such soil, I prefer to lower the alkalinity of the soil in a more natural way by digging in peat moss or oak leafmould around the plant. This doesn't effect the change as rapidly as the alum, but it works just as surely, and without damage to the soil structure. The alum stunt can be used without bad effects on sandy or gravelly ground.

Not all varieties of hydrangea can be made to change color, like litmus paper, according to the acidity or alkalinity of the soil. The white-flowering kinds, for instance, cannot be made to turn either blue or pink, no matter how you doctor up the soil.

Lighting Winners

Winners of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas lighting contest, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Johnston, were presented the trophy by Jaycee president Vic Fuggle, centre, at a dinner last night. The Johnstons won the top prize for their Nativity scene on the front lawn and house lighting at their home, 3380 Beach Drive. The family started making the figures for the scene about two months before it was set up.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Pensioner Shoots Welfare Board

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (AP)—A little 76-year-old pensioner who said he was getting a "raw deal," ended an argument over welfare cheques Friday by killing one person and wounding two others in the Klamath County courthouse.

Sheriff Murray Britton said Guy Earl Cramer of nearby Bonanza emptied a .38-calibre pistol in the crowded courtroom after his plea for increased welfare payments was rejected.

Welfare chairman Fred Peterson, 75, was shot through the chest at point-blank range. He lurched into another office, collapsed, and was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Cramer next shot welfare director Mrs. Altha Urquhart, 50, in the stomach, then whirled and fired on commissioner Jerry Rajnus, who only moments before had told Cramer: "We're through with you."

Rajnus, 48, was shot once through the back as he walked from the room. He and Mrs. Urquhart were in critical condition.

Bud Hall, board member, said he noticed Cramer fumbling inside his coat. "It didn't dawn on me he was reaching for a gun. When he started to shoot I was stunned. I just sat there."

The board rejected Cramer's plea after a 15-minute discussion and then Rajnus dismissed him by saying, "We're through with you." Cramer shouted, "Well, I'm not through with you," and whipped out the gun.

District Attorney Richard Beesley said Cramer told him he had planned the shooting for some time. Cramer was charged with first-degree murder Friday.

H. A. Maclean Joins B.C. Supreme Court

Deputy attorney-general H. Alan Maclean was appointed yesterday as a judge of the Supreme Court of B.C.

It has been common knowledge for some time that Mr. Maclean would receive the appointment and official announcement was made in Ottawa yesterday.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said there would be no immediate announcement as to Mr. Maclean's successor.

The appointment now brings the number of Supreme Court justices up to the full strength of 11. Mr. Maclean succeeds Mr. Justice H. S. Wood who retired recently.

He joined the provincial government 22 years ago and was appointed deputy attorney-general in July, 1954.

Telegraphers Defy Strike

A spokesman for Canadian Pacific Telegraphs said in Vancouver last night that 172 of its commercial telegraphs offices from Victoria to Halifax are conducting business despite the strike of railroad firemen.

Telegraph outlets closed down by the strike are all located within railroad depots.

The telegraph company said that commercial offices outside of depots will continue to provide services between stations and that arrangements can be made to handle communications to the few destinations now without service.

This Bogey of Automation

WHATEVER side issues may be introduced, the point of dispute between the Canadian Pacific Railway and the striking firemen's union is extremely simple, and easy to comprehend. It is as clear a case of feather-bedding as ever has been presented, and the principle involved can best be illustrated by means of an analogy.

Suppose that the owner of a factory powered by an antiquated coal-burning plant, which was uneconomical to operate and polluted the surrounding atmosphere, decided to replace it with a more efficient and less costly unit using a different fuel. Suppose that the manager intended to retain the services of an engineer to operate the new plant but to transfer the rest of the men in the boiler-room to other jobs paying wages no less than they had been getting, and with the same guarantee of continuous employment until retirement. Suppose, however, that the union went to him and demanded that he go on hiring men to stoke coal when there was no coal to stoke, and to haul out ashes when there were no ashes. Suppose finally that the manager refused to waste scarce manpower in this way and the union thereupon struck the entire industry and along with that threw out of work thousands of men in employment depending on its services.

That is almost precisely the situation with respect to the manning of diesel locomotives. For the sake of this absurd principle the firemen's union has plunged the entire country into disorder, imperilled its economy now and possibly far into the future, and brought hardship to countless thousands of individuals.

It has been represented that the crux of the dispute is automation, no doubt in the hope of winning the support of union men everywhere who may fear that jobs are threatened by machines. It is nothing of the sort. By no stretch can this be regarded as a test case on the issue of automation. Replacement of steam locomotives with diesel tractors is not automation but the substitution of efficiency and economy for inefficiency and wastefulness. It is no different from the substitution of an electric motor for a foot treadle.

If the principle raised by the firemen were upheld now Canada might as well forget about technological progress or else resign itself to the employment of manpower in non-existent jobs. If it had been accepted in the past the country would still be building its highways with picks and shovels and travelling along them in ox carts.

"I thought I'd surprise you"

The First Battle Honors

THE first awards of battle honors for the Second World War were announced in Ottawa just before the year's end. This is more than a decade after the cease-fire sounded in Europe, which might seem a long time except that no feverish rush is imperative about the matter and the subject is complicated. For example the official list of war theatres, battles and engagements for which claims may be lodged totals no fewer than 160, an indication of the widespread nature of the war and the far-flung participation of Canadian regiments. A lot of sifting obviously is required before the eligibility of units can be sustained.

Battle honors are a regiment's guerdon for active service, and the more a unit has the greater its fame and the better its record. They are therefore prized beyond measure, a fount of the esprit de corps of all good regiments. The custom is that only 10 honors may be inscribed on the regimental colors, but there is no limit, excepting only that imposed by the total engagements possible, to the number which may be awarded. For example among the first four regiments designated last month the Essex Scottish won 19 honors and the 14th Canadian Hussars 15. Each of these units now choose the 10 they wish to be borne on their colors.

Many regiments will of course gain similar honors, since certain battles involved whole brigades or divisions. For instance among the honors of the Essex Scottish are those granted for taking honorable part at Dieppe, Falaise, the Scheldt, the Hochwald, Northwest Europe 1944-45, the Rhineland and Twente Canal. Other units will be able to claim some of these engagements, the local Victoria regiment, the Canadian Scottish, included. One of these days, as the award committee goes down the list of claimants, the guerdon of the Scottish will be announced, and doubtless there is considerable speculation at the Armory on the battle awards to be granted. All units across the country in fact will be hopeful for the best.

Buy Normally Now

WHILE the rail strike lasts and there may be difficulty in maintaining necessary supplies at their customary levels, the public can do much to help by buying normally for its immediate requirements. Any rush to stock-up or to hoard food and commodities could only have the effect of exhausting the available supplies and leaving others without their share. If on the other hand the public continues to buy in normal volume, and only for its immediate requirements, there is reason to believe that there will be no actual shortage of anything material to the needs of the community. With the time warning that has been given, importers have had some opportunity to rearrange their schedules.

The difficulty in a situation of this nature is when the public becomes fearful of the adequacy of supply, and individuals seek to protect themselves against shortage. That might happen in one business, one household or with a few individuals and little harm result. But it seldom ends there. The example is followed, and the isolated case of laying in stocks is followed in rising pressure until there is a run on available supplies. Normally wholesalers are equipped to handle an ordinary gap in transhipments, but a run on their stocks simultaneously would invite depletion. Insofar as food, medicines and other necessary items of household need are concerned, the only fair plan is to spread out whatever may be available. Then no one need suffer." The stocks on hand will most likely carry over until the first renewals relieve any pressure.

While the whole of the country is affected by any curtailment of its transportation, Vancouver Island is sensitive to and subject to its ability to bring in from the mainland whatever is needed to keep its businesses and homes going. This applies particularly to basic staples such as food, in winter coal and so forth. Industrially the list is long and by no means less urgent. But the same consideration covers both domestic and commercial needs: don't hoard, buy normally now.

Interpreting the News

Khrushchev Turns Again

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staf Correspondent

THE Soviet Russian Government seems to be working out a thorough re-shaping of its policies after months of embarrassment and confusion.

Moscow dispatches indicate that the new policy will cover the proper dividing line between "Stalinism" and "Titoism," relations with the Soviet satellite countries and the prosecution of the cold war.

Nikita S. Khrushchev, the Communist Party chieftain, gave one important clue to the new line in comments he made at a new year reception in Moscow.

After praising the late Josef Stalin as "a great Marxist" and "a great fighter against imperialism," Khrushchev admitted that he and other present Soviet leaders shared some of Stalin's mistakes because they were associated with him. In fighting imperialism, Khrushchev said, "We are all Stalinists."

There was nothing sensational in the praise of Stalin. Khrushchev said about the same thing in his sensational denunciation of Stalin at the 20th Communist Party Congress last February.

At that time Khrushchev specified that in his early years of leadership, Stalin actively fought to defend "Leninism"—that is Marxism—against those who deviated from the party line. "In the past," Khrushchev said then, "Stalin doubtless performed great services to the party, to the working class and to the international workers movement."

But in his February speech, Khrushchev tried his hardest to absolve himself and his colleagues in the new collective leadership of complicity in Stalin's crimes.

This defence was challenged by Communists in many countries. Khrushchev's new statement seems to be a concession to them.

The problem of drawing the line between old-style Stalinist domination of the satellite countries and Titoism is being met in several ways.

First, the Soviet government seems to have accepted fully the "Titoist" government of Polish Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka.

This was a matter of necessity. The Poles won their revolt against both the "Stalinists" who still ruled their country and against dictation from Moscow. Khrushchev and his fellow-leaders apparently have decided to make the best of it.

In Hungary, now that the active rebellion has been crushed, the Russian leaders appear to be trying to insure that the trend toward a really Titoist government is stopped. As one part of that job, they have started to give economic aid to the Kadar government.

The policy toward other Satellites seems to be to try as long as possible to keep Stalinist leaders in control, at the risk of provoking outbreaks in some of them.

Moscow's line toward President Tito of Yugoslavia is becoming increasingly angry. He is an ambitious man, and has left little room for doubt that he would like to be Communist No. 1 in the satellite bloc of countries.

Pacific Park

By FRANK KELLEY

IN A recent issue of The Islander it was a privilege to present a little something about an area of land on this Island's west coast which, in my humble opinion anyway, would make an ideal, maybe unique, site for an ocean-level park such as the federal government proposed developing some time before the Second World War started. Ottawa was interested enough to send representatives to Victoria and to learn what British Columbia was agreeable to do in the way of setting aside a block of land suitable for such a national oceanside park as the Parks Board envisaged.

Apparently the desire to create such a playground on the west coast was to forestall any suggestion of favoritism resulting after it was announced that plans had been formulated for the setting aside, with the co-operation of Canada's maritime provinces, of an area with a lot of diversified appeal along the Bay of Fundy on the New Brunswick shore. That Atlantic park has been a going concern some years now; and from all accounts boasts varied visitor interests. Apparently B.C. had been willing to set aside some land held under timber lease between Cowichan Lake and the ocean; but after some consideration following the return of the park representatives to Ottawa the idea was pigeon-holed and forgotten.

If the national parks body is still open-minded about an ocean-side park on the Pacific there is an opportunity for utilization of Brooks Peninsula, some 24 miles of Pacific-washed shore forming its seaward boundary, with no one ever thinking it might possess enough of value to warrant exploration. It recently occurred to the writer that Islanders generally might like to revive the ocean-level park planning program and find ways and means for setting aside all this block of the public domain as a national park. That is what prompted me to pass on something of what was heard and seen from time to time. Can still imagine, if developed intelligently, it would prove a unique ocean-level playground, based on the loveliest protected waterways imaginable—that of Klaskish Inlet at its northerly extreme and Nesparte Inlet on the Kyuquot side.

* * *

In the meantime, several evidently interested in the suggestion made and what its development might mean to Vancouver Islanders in the future, have phoned to ask a pertinent question or two. The rainfall in that particular area is one. Regarding this, there is very little information about rainy seasons. No one has ever measured how much rain fell in a twelve-month. At the same time one cannot imagine it would be great enough to make it an all-year misery. Have passed it seaward many times in fine weather, and spent some weeks in its vicinity without experiencing rain or fog, either of which could be seasonal and not unusual. Rain and fog records could be ascertained, to some extent anyway, by records kept at Winter Harbor or Kyuquot.

Another questioner wanted to know how one got there, with no roads. My answer to that one was that if the federal government should create an ocean-level park out of that particular land area it would find ways and means of building an access road into it. Old prospectors have told me of prospecting between Kyuquot and Nimpkish Lake, from where there is a water grade to Crown Mountain. One is aware of the ruggedness between Nimpkish and Nesparte (about 10 miles as a crow flies). Possibly engineers of Surveyor General Andrews' staff could locate a road grade between those points. At all events, it is worth investigating for the ultimate good of the Island.

Gerald Waring

Reports from Ottawa

THE dispute between the Canadian Pacific Railway and the locomotive firemen's union has two sides, as traditionally every argument is supposed to have. But only one side, the railway's, has been adequately presented to the public.

As a result, the public mind is forming a picture of an efficient and progressive railway being opposed by unreasonable, feather-bedding union bosses who recklessly threaten harm to the national economy in their effort to gain their objectives.

CPR president N. R. Crump put the railway's position succinctly when he said that "The dispute is about only one thing—whether Canadian Pacific will in the future be forced to hire new men as firemen when these jobs are no longer required because of changing conditions."

However, the union's story—rarely reported, inadequately publicized, and perhaps ignored by many who see only in blacks and whites—is worthy of more consideration than it has received.

* * *

The first point the union makes is that the experience of U.S. railroads prior to 1937 showed it was too dangerous to operate trains with only one man in a diesel locomotive cab. Accidents resulted when engineers died or became ill at the throttle. The "dead man's pedal" under the engineer's foot was supposed to prevent such accidents by applying brakes automatically when pressure on it was released, but it wasn't foolproof. There were instances in which it didn't work because the engineer slumped forward, jamming the pedal.

So in 1937 U.S. railroads agreed to put firemen-helpers on diesels, and to recruit them from the ranks of steam locomotive firemen. In 1949 the union reached a similar agreement with the CPR and CNR.

In 1956 the Canadian railways and 140 U.S. railways made identical announcements. They proposed to remove firemen from diesels hauling passenger trains, and to replace them with other employees to whom they proposed to pay only half of a fireman's $11 a day. They also proposed to dispense with firemen on freight and yard switching diesels, and have the head-end brakeman take over the fireman's duties on freight diesels.

Last fall the CNR and all 140 U.S. railroads withdrew this notice and agreed to continue the status quo. Only the CPR held firm. Subsequently the CPR accepted a conciliation board recommendation that firemen be retained on diesels at full pay, but that the job be abolished on a trial basis for freight diesels, and without qualification for yard diesels. The union rejected this compromise.

* * *

The union argues—and it has been able to talk the CNR and 140 U.S. roads into at least temporary agreement—that for safety's sake all diesels still need the traditional second man in the cab. That the CPR alone disagrees does not necessarily mean the CPR is wrong, but it does not seem to strengthen its position.

Thus there are two sides to this argument. There is the CPR side, which in effect charges the union with feather-bedding, and fighting progress. And there is the union side, which holds that railway safety would be jeopardized if firemen were dispensed with or if their calibre were lowered by a 50 per cent pay cut.

It seems almost superfluous to point out that both parties have obvious motives. The CPR wants to save costs and increase profits, while the union leaders want to save the firemen's jobs and pay cheques and, perhaps, their own.

The Packsack

Who Comes First?

By GREGORY CLARK

ON a small uninhabited island in the Niagara River, heavily wooded and very tangled, the government biologists detected the presence of deer that had apparently swum over or, in a favorable instant, crossed on the ice of that turbulent river. Since nobody ever intrudes on the island, and interference with the deer was likely to be at a minimum, the biologists seized upon the situation to make a study of survival.

In a year or two the deer population had increased to more than a dozen. And after five years or so the biologists made a sweep on the island, counting all the deer that doubled back past their line of drivers. There were more than a hundred.

Despite the abundant plant life and heavily forested character of the island, the biologists noted with concern that a great deal of the reachable browse on the island, the twigs and shoots of young growth, the branches of larger trees that were within reach of standing deer, had been eaten.

In the spring the biologists made a second sweep of the island, and found the carcasses of 52 of the hundred deer; and on examination all the dead deer were found to have died of malnutrition and starvation.

This confirms the experience of many areas in the United States where the deer have been protected and allowed to increase in such numbers as to over populate their feeding range. This is used to defend the sport of deer hunting, which should keep the deer population down within survival proportions. But the importance of the study lies in the light it sheds so dramatically, cruelly, on the processes of nature in balancing, invariably, the population of any wild life with its food supply. Nature plays no favorites. It defends its plants by starving the deer. It protects its rabbits by almost exterminating them, and so starving the multiplied foxes. When the foxes are all but exterminated, the rabbits multiply.

Some years ago, an Indian friend of mine confessed to having set a fire that consumed thousands of acres of valuable timber.

"You white men," he said, "only want timber. I want deer and blueberries. They will come after the fire. New growth."

I expressed my consternation.

"Who comes first? The white man or the Indian?" he inquired.

As an amateur naturalist, I didn't know the answer.

City Notebook

More About Parking

By ORMOND MARRION

THOSE of us who have groaned in the last few days about having to take the lights off the tree, and to stow them away for next year in their natural state or laboriously disentangled, should stop and think of Kenneth Reid, the city electrical 800 colored lamps to replace with white ones in the downtown cluster lights.

The colored lamps, used this season for the first time, having drawn no great praise and no great criticism, can be taken to have been at least a moderate success. Merchants are footing part of the bill for them and the holly baskets hung on the standards, and the city, up to $750, the rest.

* * *

VICTORIA drivers may have it drawn to their attention more clearly in the year ahead that parking is still limited to one hour in most metered zones.

Even in the presence of the city officials most concerned with parking regulations, some drivers can be heard to remark, from time to time, "My meter will be running out. I'll have to go and drop another nickel in."

The little tabs on the parking meters are not too noticeable and not too specific about one hour of parking being the limit, and a likelihood exists that they will be supplemented in the coming year with signs that say definitely that parking beyond one hour is prohibited.

The prohibition may seem unreasonable to many who feel they are renting the curb space and paying a handsome rent at that, but traffic experts are unanimous on the point that parking meters are intended to make downtown curb space useable by the greatest possible number of cars. In other words, 100 parking meters that accommodate 1,000 cars in a day are fulfilling their function; 100 parking meters that accommodate 100 cars in a day are not, or at least not by any means to the same degree.

* * *

Although nothing has been said about it yet by anyone in authority, there is also a possibility that half-hour metered parking, as instituted on Broad Street, may be extended to some other street or streets.

Ald. Millard H. Mooney fought long and vigorously before he succeeded in having the Broad Street one-hour meters replaced with half-hour, five-cent meters. Opponents of his plan expected both the motorists and the merchants to dislike it, but it was instituted on a trial basis and has been in operation for many months now with apparent success.

True, one or two election candidates have referred briefly to "this crazy half-hour parking on Broad Street," but their remarks haven't been taken up and they haven't been elected.

MAYOR Percy B. Scurrah may be expected to say soon, if he hasn't said by the time this column appears, what he thinks of Finance Minister Walter Harris.

When the mayor visited Ottawa in November, he asked Mr. Harris whether or not the federal government would be willing to rebate the 10-per-cent sales tax on materials used in the new Point Ellice bridge, pointing out that Vancouver had not had to pay the sales tax on the new Granville bridge.

The minister contended that the Granville bridge constituted no precedent. But, he said, he would look into and consider the matter further. He would write to the mayor before the end of the year.

Mayor Scurrah waited and waited for the minister's letter, anxious to know what savings might be made on the bridge and used for other essential projects. The end of the year has passed, and he's waiting yet.

During a fire the tenants of an apartment building rushed into the street carrying their most prized possessions. A woman who was among the tenants scurrying for safety, noticed that the gentleman who lived directly above her was carrying a large bird cage.

"What have you got there?" she asked.

"That's my pet rooster," said the man, and the woman fainted.

When she was revived, she explained to her anxious neighbor, "I'm sorry I fainted but, you see, for the past year I've been under treatment by a psychiatrist because I kept hearing a rooster crowing!"

Letters to the Editor

Shortsighted View

May I be permitted to make a belated comment on the previously published correspondence on the school board referendum?

While I am not unsympathetic with some of the views expressed, I do feel that a sense of proportion and a full knowledge of the facts is essential, and to this end I would suggest that those taxpayers who have obviously never seen the inside of a new junior or senior high school should make it their business to find out just how these buildings are planned and constructed.

It seems to me that far too many persons are of the opinion that, as the little red schoolhouse was good enough for them and their parents, it should be good enough for their children.

Such an attitude appears to be very shortsighted. Why shouldn't our children have schools at least as good as the houses they live in, and the benefit of all the modern educational facilities available?

Daily the need for good education is becoming more and more apparent. The highly technical and competitive nature of business and industry demand a keen mind and good basic training, and unlimited opportunities await young people who are willing to take advantage of all the educational facilities offered.

With regard to Mr. Tupman's comments on technical and vocational training and equipment, may I suggest that many openings would be available in smaller businesses for boys leaving school after successfully completing a good trade course, as they would be able to make themselves sufficiently useful to earn their keep.

Rarely is it possible for the small business man to be able to afford the luxury of an apprentice's wages for a boy who has no knowledge of the trade.

Government establishments, of course, are in a different position, but even there the fact that a lad has made a success of his trade training at least shows that he is keen, and has an aptitude for his chosen occupation.

Such desirable results obviously cannot be achieved without expenditure on modern equipment for all trades courses.

That Extra Effort

May we be permitted to express our gratefulness to the staff of the children's ward, Royal Jubilee Hospital, for more than their obvious technical skill in the recent illness of our daughter Anetha. They show the tender, loving care of a devoted mother, and give this their calling that extra effort for which we are sincerely thankful.

Electors Thanked

May I express my thanks to the electors of Esquimalt? It is very gratifying to know the faith that the people of Esquimalt have put in me and I will assure them that I will support their interests and do all in my power to see that the rights of the people are assured.

Bleeding the Public

I think the time has come to call a halt to this epidemic of wage increases across our country. There was a time in our short history that the employer used to bleed the wage earner, but that time is past.

Now it is the big trade unions that have replaced the old-time employer by bleeding the general public for all they can get. The average trade unionist must know that it is not the employer that pays the increases in their wages but the consumer no matter who their employer may be, whether it is the CPR, city council or a general contractor.

Eventually the trade unions will cut their own throats if they do not curtail their demands on the general public. I was for 29 years an active trade unionist.

Label Bad Drivers

Here is a diabolical plan for safe driving. Issue every person holding a driver's licence who has been free from a traffic accident for three years a white disc on his windshield and rear window. Also label his driver's licence. He is a safe driver.

If a white disc driver is involved in a minor traffic accident he is immediately fined accordingly and the white disc replaced with a blue one. If the accident is somewhat more serious the disc could be a green one. When a serious accident occurs fine him heavily, cancel his driver's licence for a certain period. When he is allowed to drive again give him a red disc.

When these colored discs are issued it will be up to the drivers to earn the privilege of holding a white one again. In this way any motorist can tell at a glance the driving capabilities of the motorist in front of him and at the rear. Any motorist seeing a car with a green or red disc would certainly give that driver a wide berth. These discs could be removed when other members of the family wish to drive.

Public Idea Wrong, Says Strikers' Chief

TORONTO (CP)—H. E. Gilbert of Cleveland, international president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, said Friday there seems to be public misconception about the present strike of Canadian Pacific Railway firemen.

What the firemen ask from the CPR, he said, is what the union has been granted by every other North American railway with which it has a contract.

He said the union has settled peaceably with its other railways, including the Canadian National Railways, and "we haven't asked the CPR for more than the others have done."

Survival of the union in Canada and the United States is not at stake, he said.

"Unfortunately, someone seems to have spread a misconception as to what the strike involves. Is Mr. Crump CPR president right and everyone else on the continent wrong?

* * *

MONTREAL (CP) — CPR president N. R. Crump charged Friday that Canadian Pacific's striking firemen's union placed "its own selfish motives above the interests of Canada."

The words were the strongest used by the CPR chief since the 17,000-mile railway was tied up Wednesday, leaving 70,000 rail employees idle and causing industrial layoffs now totalling 5,000 persons.

TORONTO (BUP)—Toronto's Union Station, one of Canada's greatest railway centres, was threatened yesterday with closure.

C. Beckerton, general chairman of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway employees, said if railway workers were disciplined for refusing to work overtime, his union will close the station.

Condition Serious

Girl Road Victim Still Unconscious

Michelle Elliott, three-year-old victim of a traffic accident Thursday, was still unconscious in St. Joseph's Hospital late yesterday.

The child suffered a fractured skull when hit by a car on Glanford at Baker. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Elliott, 614 Baker.

Thursday evening she underwent surgery which left her condition slightly improved, but still serious.

Also in hospital with head injuries is Carol Ann Fecht, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Fecht, 914 Oliver. She is in good condition.

FELL OFF BICYCLE

She apparently fell from her bicycle while riding on Central Avenue, and was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital by Mrs. B. Middler, 569 Falkland, who found her unconscious on the road.

Two boys from the same block shared a ride to Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday.

Dennis Harbour, 1632 Amphion, sustained a broken arm when a ladder fell on him by a woodshed at 1520 Amphion.

The police ambulance which took him to hospital also took Kenneth Geary, 8, 1509 Amphion, who had been bitten on the leg by a dog. Kenneth was treated and discharged, and the dog's owner agreed to have the dog destroyed.

Yesterday afternoon Barry Emery, 9, of 127 Howe, fractured his right leg in a fall near the path overlooking Horseshoe Bay in Beacon Hill Park. Police took him to St. Joseph's Hospital.

E & N Passengers Get Short Shrift?

Attempt Deliberate, Says Port Alberni

Canadian Pacific Railway was accused yesterday of what "appears to be a deliberate attempt to discourage passenger traffic" on its Nanaimo-Port Alberni run of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway.

The accusation was made during a public hearing before the Board of Transport Commissioners in connection with the CPR's application to discontinue the service.

Decision was reserved.

A brief presented on behalf of Port Alberni City Solicitor E. A. Dinsmore hit out at the company.

"Far from endeavoring to compete with bus transportation and increase its passenger revenue it would appear that the railway company has deliberately . . . made such changes and alterations as would render its passenger service as unremunerative as possible with a view to its total discontinuance," said Mr. Dinsmore.

LENGTHY WAIT

He said the schedules were changed last September and that passengers leaving Port Alberni would have to wait three hours 57 minutes at Nanaimo in order to connect with the first boat to Vancouver.

In addition a wait of 13 hours 47 minutes was required to connect with the first southbound train to Victoria.

Mr. Dinsmore said the train arrived in Nanaimo at 2.03 a.m. and left at 3.27 a.m. in an apparent effort to discourage passengers.

Other witnesses pointed out that the CPR was given the huge E & N land grant to operate the railroad and that the over-all picture of the railway economically was sound and the company was making money.

From the sale of timber rights alone from the land grant the CPR has cleared $85,500,000 it was stated.

Russell Dudley, executive manager of the Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce, said public relations would increase passenger traffic on the line and that the CPR failed to advertise the service.

BUDD CAR URGED

Herbert J. Bruch, MLA for Esquimalt, urged that one Budd car be used for the line and said the operation of the Budd car between Victoria and Nanaimo showed it would pay.

Mr. Justice John D. Kearney, who will decide the case with Commissioner Frank M. MacPherson, frequently asked for concrete suggestions on how the line should be operated.

"If there was a reasonable chance of it paying we would order to have it put on a trial basis," he said.

"If it worked it would be fine. If it didn't there may be greater losses but we owe it to the public to explore every avenue," he added.

The CPR, represented by F. H. Britton, said the branch line was losing $12,600 yearly by operating, the passenger service and said the line was hardly ever used by the public.

It was pointed out that passengers average 4.7 a trip over the 61-mile route which takes 3½ hours.

The commissioners' decision will be announced in Ottawa.

Cabinet Debates Strike

Provincial cabinet yesterday fully discussed the effects the CPR strike is having on the provincial economy according to reliable sources.

Premier Bennett refused to comment on the strike.

According to reliable sources, the province stands to lose thousands of dollars as a result of the tie-up.

It was stated that the strike will throw workers out of jobs, they will not get pay cheques, their spending will be cut, and the province will lose out on its 5 per cent sales tax.

Soon to Fly over City

Soon to be flying from a flagpole planned for a new park area on the south side of Christ Church Cathedral are these two flags of the Anglican Church of Canada, the first to arrive in Victoria. Dean Brian Whitlow and his secretary, Norah Hughes, support the smaller flag, which will be flown in winds of more than 20 miles an hour. In the centre of the flags is the crest of the diocese of British Columbia. Flags were donated by Cmdr. and Mrs. Mansfield L. Robinson, in memory of their son. — (Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman.)

Message from the Minister

Life's New Page Lies Clean

This is another in a series of articles by Greater Victoria clergymen appearing weekly on The Daily Colonist church page.

By REV. EMMA M. SMILEY
Victoria Truth Centre

A new year has been born. A new page of life lies clean and white before us. We may write on it what we will!

What we write will depend on which path we choose to walk in our journey through 1957. We may walk the "known way" or we may put our hand "in the hand of God and go out into the darkness."

If we follow the "known way" our pathway will be hard and uncertain. We will live in a world of appearances. We will listen to the habitual woe moongers, and the monster fear will accompany us on our journey.

If, however, we choose the unknown pathway, with our hand in the hand of God, it shall indeed be better than the "known way." We will walk this way if we follow the instructions given by St. Paul: "feel after Him and find Him . . . for in Him we live and move and have our being." It is only when we know God in this way that we may live joyously and unafraid.

REV. EMMA M. SMILEY

We would all love to live in freedom. We all desire happiness and peace for 1957. Shall we simply dream about it and hope that something wonderful will happen, or shall we do something about it?

We may do something about it if we will turn to the Presence that is closer than breathing and know that, being one with God, there is an answer to every prayer and a solution to every problem.

There is a technique for praying that is just as simple and just as necessary as the partaking of the light and warmth of the sun. To experience this light and warmth we must leave our dark room and walk out into the brightness. How do we feel when we have done this? We feel all the sun's glow and become one with it.

We do not receive our answer to prayer by begging and pleading to a distant God. This is remaining in the darkness of separation. We receive it by turning to the Presence in whom we live and move and have our being and joyously accepting and giving thanks for our answer.

How does it feel, now that our prayer is answered, now that we consciously know and feel the Presence of the Living God and have walked into the light? The unknown is no longer dark. It is filled with God. Life is a glorious adventure because we have learned to pray the prayer that changes things and changes us. Prayer works miracles.

God is here with His power and His love. Speak to Him Commit your way unto Him! Commune with Him!

"Go out into the darkness and put thine hand into the hand of God. That shall be to thee better than light, and safer than the known way."

New Church Opens Tomorrow

With three knocks of his pastoral staff on the door of St. Matthias' Anglican Church at 7.30 p.m. tomorrow, Archbishop Harold E. Sexton will announce his arrival to open and dedicate the new $128,000 church and parish hall.

The sermon will be delivered by Rt. Rev. P. R. Beattie, bishop of Kootenay.

A prominent feature of the new church, located at the corner of Richmond and Richardson, is a large copper cross on the outside west wall over a round window.

The church seats about 350, some 100 of these in a balcony.

The building is of concrete block with the roof supported by laminated arches.

A small chapel, a separate unit, contains old furnishings of sentimental value from the former church, and will be open at all times for prayer and meditation and small week-day services.

A pipe organ is being given to the church as a war memorial by Nicholas Addems.

Sunday School Children Rally

Many hundreds of Sunday school children from Greater Victoria United Churches will pour into First United Church at 2.30 p.m. tomorrow for the second annual New Year's rally.

Preacher at the rally will be Rev. Ibbs Avery of St. Aidan's United Church, speaking on the topic, "How to Become New."

Invitations have been sent to 5,280 children in 18 United Churches as far north as Langford and Sidney.

More than 1,600 attended the rally last year, reported Rev. Douglas Pilkey of Esquimalt United Church and chairman of the sponsoring Victoria Area Christian Education Committee.

Rev. Leighton Streight, new chairman of this committee, will present the Edward A. Lynch Memorial Award to the Sunday School with the best attendance at the rally and during the past year.

How You Can Think Faster

Ever forget a friend's name just as you introduce him? Freeze up in a discussion, even though you know the facts? Take minutes, even hours, making a simple decision?

January Reader's Digest tells you what psychologists have learned about these strange "mental short circuits" that sometimes paralyze your mind; shows you how to overcome them — how to improve your memory and think faster. Get your January Reader's Digest today: 33 articles of lasting interest including the best from current books and magazines, condensed to save your time.

Toronto Has Busiest Day Since May

TORONTO (CP)—Junior mining and western oil stocks soaked up large volumes Friday as the Toronto stock market recorded its ninth straight advance amid the heaviest trading in eight months.

Final volume of 6,176,000 was the heaviest since May 11, 1956. Thursday's total was 4,400,000.

Security had the best gain among low-priced western oils with a gain of 40 cents. Triad and Canadian Atlantic jumped 30.

Interprovincial Pipe Line led industrials with a 3½-point gain to a new high of 53¼. Pembina, McColl, Trans Mountain and Canadian Oil were other strong winners. Utilities, papers and constructions also had their share of winners.

Pipeline Strength

MONTREAL (CP) — Oils held the limelight Friday as the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges closed the week on firm footing.

A strong pipe line group showed Interprovincial ahead 3½ and Trans Mountain 1¼. McColl and Imperial added ⅛ in refining issues. Among westerns, Okalta gained 30 cents, Canadian Devonian 20 and Pacific Petroleum ¾.

Base metals bucked the general trend as Noranda dropped 1½ and Aluminium a point. Papers improved with Powell River and Great Lake gaining 1.

New York Weakens

NEW YORK (AP)—Oils again paced the stock market to an advance Friday but a late wave of selling brought losses to many industrials, particularly steels.

For most of the day it was a higher market on better-than-average turnover. The sudden sell-off was said by Wall Stree tobservers to be due to profit-taking before the weekend.

A solid advance by rails, which have lagged in recent upturns, helped boost the list as a whole into higher ground.

Oil Prices Soar

VANCOUVER — Oil and gas shares buoyantly reflected new markets for natural gas and possible increase in the price of crude.

Pacific Pete mounted to $18½, Canadian Atlantic to 7.25, Charter to 2.45, Vantor to 1.51, Okalta to 2.70, Triad to 8.85 and Fargo to 3.05.

Among the distributors Inland Natural Gas was up 50 cents at $8¾, while B.C. Power was firm at $44.

Crown Zellerbach improved to $21¾ and Powell River to $45½.

Bethlehem was again the star among mines with a further advance to 2.61. Other coppers were firm.

Cougars Climb on 3-1 Victory; Retain Mastery Over Warriors

By JIM TANG

Victoria Cougars retained their mastery over Winnipeg Warriors last night at Memorial Arena, scoring once in each period to win an inter-divisional Western Hockey League game, 3-1, and move within three points of third place in the Western Division.

Cougars now have won three and tied one of four games with the Warriors, who have lost 19 of their last 21 games and trail the leaders in the Eastern Division by a whopping 27 points.

Warriors, however, gave it a battle last night and they often looked like the better club, particularly in the second period when they turned to an aggressive brand of hockey which almost paid off.

After a ragged first period, Warriors came out in a scrappy mood for the second 20 minutes. They took the man whenever possible and did a lot of running at the Cougars.

KILBURN TARGET

Victoria coach Colin Kilburn was a particular target, especially for Bill Burega, a dour type on the ice. The tactics had the Cougars a bit too much on the cautious side for some time and it appeared as if their 2-0 lead, established early in the period, was in danger.

However, Larry Leach, a useful performer in his return to action, hit Burega hard midway through the third period and when the helmeted veteran returned to the ice, he was dumped by Bill Dohbyn. The two checks appeared to make a difference to both clubs and the Cougars came back strongly and were the better club at the finish.

Cougars used five defencemen for the first time this season, Nels Bulloch returning to the line-up after about six weeks on the sidelines with a broken jaw.

The Victoria club didn't start skating well until the third period and its attack sputtered in the early stages. But they didn't make too many mistakes defensively and they cashed in quickly on their scoring chances.

SCORING DISTRIBUTED

Each of the three forward lines accounted for a goal and each of the nine forwards picked up a point. The Don Chiupka-Wayne Brown-Leach line more than held its own with Chiupka and Leach both earning the right for more action with sound hockey.

Doug Macauley's screened backhander after 63 seconds put Cougars out front and they increased their lead to two goals early in the second period when Gordie Haworth came up to pocket the rebound after Bruce Carmichael had made a fine rush right down right wing and forced Gerry McNamara to kick his backhander in front.

A penalty to Doug Anderson for tripping saw Warriors get close when Earl Ingarfield scored after sustained pressure at 14.05 of the second period.

Cougars gave their fans a few anxious moments after that but were more than holding their own when Brown fired in the clincher from the edge of the crease after taking a short pass from Chiupka. Leach set up the goal by digging hard for the puck in the corner and getting it to Chiupka.

Another chance to get over the hump faces the Cougars next week. They host Vancouver Canucks Monday and Seattle Americans Friday and play the Royals at New Westminster Saturday. A sweep will make the standings look a lot better from this viewpoint.

Colonist cameraman Jim Ryan stopped action just after play in which centre Gordie Haworth of Victoria Cougars scored what proved to be the winning goal in 3-1 victory over Winnipeg Warriors at Memorial Arena last night. Haworth drove in rebound off shot by Bruce Carmichael, who went past Bill Burega (5). Coming up too late at extreme right is Winnipeg forward Cec Hoekstra. Covering too late is goalkeeper Gerry McNamara.

Robinson Gets Own Medicine

Jenson Wants Bout Delayed; Mating Mink Chief Concern

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK (UP)—Middleweight champion Gene Fullmer unexpectedly handed ex-champ Ray Robinson a dose of his own delaying pills Friday night.

Just when negotiations were moving rapidly toward a return title bout in March at the Chicago Stadium, the Utah "strong boy" announced through his manager he preferred to delay his first title defence until June at Yankee Stadium.

Meanwhile, the brawny new 160-pound ruler — who had waited six months for his shot at Robinson's crown until last Wednesday night—wants four non-title bouts, three of which have been "practically arranged" for Denver, Salt Lake City and Houston, Tex.

READY IN MARCH

Fullmer's announcement, by manager Marv Jenson, exploded like a memento from New York's "Mad Bomber" at headquarters of the International Boxing Club where Robinson had announced to reporters shortly before that he would be ready to fight Gene in March.

When dates were suggested to manager Jenson, a late arrival, he reared back and declared, "a March fight is definitely out."

He added: "And we want the fight in New York. Robinson can have it here in February if he wants it." But Jenson knew Sugar Ray Robinson couldn't train for a February fight because of a cut on his left brow.

The manager continued, "or he can have it in April or May here." But he knew that Madison Square Garden is occupied by a circus and evangelist Billy Graham during those two months.

MEMORY JOGGED

When Jenson's memory was jogged (needlessly) about those conditions, he then said, "Actually we want our first defence at Yankee Stadium in June. And we want four over-the-weight matches meanwhile, so Gene can make some money and quit working in the copper mine arranged?

Just why can't Fullmer fight in March, at Chicago or possibly in New York if another New York TV blackout could be arranged.

Sports writers were flabbergasted by Jenson's reply which said the love-life of Utah mink would prevent it.

"As Fullmer's manager, I must be present at his training and fights," he said. "But I can not leave my mink farm at West Jordan, Utah, in March because that is the mating season for minks. I must be there to pair them properly, particularly in producing my new pearl minks. It would cost me thousands of dollars to be absent."

He added that his absence from the ranch in December, during the "pelting season," had already cost him between $10,000 and $15,000. At the ranch, he keeps more than 1,000 females, and they bear about 4,000 kits each year, he explained.

Norman Finally Turns Pro; Martinez in Flashy Debut

Moe Norman, the controversial Canadian golfer whose amateur status has been in question for the past few months, settled the situation once and for all last night by announcing that he is turning professional.

James Anglin, president of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, announced that he had received a letter from Norman to that effect, and that it represents "a wise decision in the interests of amateur golf." The RCGA had been investigating Norman since he was barred from a Canadian team going to Mexico last fall.

In his letter Norman said in part: "Coming from a family of modest means, I naturally found it necessary at times to find a means to pay expenses in order to play competitive golf. Possibly this was a mistake . . . and now I realize the seriousness of my habit."

Mikulan Blanks Americans While Flyers Trim Royals

Beaten by 9-2 and 7-1 during the past week by Seattle Americans, Vancouver Canucks got some revenge last night at Vancouver as they dealt a shutout to the Western Hockey League's Western Division leaders, 4-0, at Vancouver.

It was the first time this season that the Americans had been blanked and the shutout came after four games in which they scored no less than 30 goals.

Americans, however, died hard. They fired 43 shots at Ray Mikulan but the Vancouver goalkeeper, who leads the league in shots stopped, wasn't to be beaten as he picked up his second shutout of the season.

Canucks were badly outshot in every period and managed only 22 shots at Emile Francis. But veteran Fred Brown was picking the openings, scoring his club's first three goals. The other went to Wiggie Wylie while starry Phil Maloney added three assists to his point total.

Action was fast and interesting throughout for the 3,750 fans. In the second period it was rough, with Seattle rookie Art Hart and Canuck veteran Hugh Currie tangling in a fight and Seattle defenceman Gordie Sinclair getting a game misconduct for turning on referee Ross Valliere after getting a minor penalty.

SIX IN A ROW

At Edmonton, the Flyers moved three points ahead in the Eastern Division, sending 4,610 fans home happy as they trimmed New Westminster Royals, 6-2.

Flyers took 27 minutes to start scoring, then piled up a 5-0 lead before Royals got their first goal. Royals, who complete their second Prairie tour tonight at Calgary, started it with victories in Winnipeg and Brandon.

Rookie Len Lunde was the game's brightest star. The lanky pivot scored once and made two beautiful scoring passes, to Tom McCarthy and Tony Leswick.

It was the sixth straight win for the Flyers, as usual hitting peak form in the second half of the schedule.

Gutoski Gains Curling Final

Tony Gutoski's rink entered the finals of the second of two knockout competitions for a berth in the zone finals as a representative of the Victoria Curling Club last night by defeating Dr. Kirby Moysey, 11-5.

Gutoski will meet Bob McIntosh in the final tonight at 9.00. Winner will play in the British Consuls Zone 1 (Vancouver Island) finals at Duncan January 12 and 13, along with Wes Young's Navy rink, which won the first knockout competition.

Two rinks from each of the four Island curling clubs will be entered in the competition.

UBC Rowing Coach Calls For Nation-Wide Program

VANCOUVER (CP) — The man who coached the University of British Columbia rowers to two Olympic medals in Melbourne challenged Canada Friday to "immediately institute" a country-wide, universally-supported sports program.

"Canada's effort at the games was not one that we, as Canadians, can be proud of," said Frank Read, coach of the UBC fours and eights which won gold and silver medals, respectively.

Read, addressing a men's Canadian Club luncheon, said:

"We have become a nation of spectators, content to sit on the sidelines and be entertained—but we demand the best in entertainment. This has narrowed our interest to the professional games."

In professional sport, he said, there is a danger that youth could be attracted more by the glamor of the sport than by the role of education and participation in amateur sports.

Amateur sport in Canada is operated on a shoe-string, he said, and called on government, industry and business for help. If educational facilities are to undertake a national sports program "we must be prepared to pay a higher price for education."

Horse Racing Goes Modern in Puerto Rico

By OSCAR FRALEY

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UP)—Horse racing is ready today to go modern in Puerto Rico after 30 years of horse and buggy operation.

A syndicate of New York, Philadelphia and Washington businessmen has moved in and erected one of the world's most beautiful and modern racing plants. Snuggled in the shadow of El Yunque, Puerto Rico's highest mountain, it is an eye-catching masterpiece.

But this is one shot not aimed at "tourista."

For the new track, El Commandante, has a gimmick going for it which is going to do things for its stock on the Wall Street boards. This is off-track betting, long a bone of contention in the United States, through which the most isolated islander will be able to place a bet and for as little as 25 cents.

All across Puerto Rico's length and breadth, there have been scattered 300 agents who will take bets for the pool. These bets are on a six-race parlay and everybody is hoping to get rich, from the track owners right down to the lowliest sugar cane worker with 25 itching pennies.

Curly Byrd, the white-maned former University of Maryland president, was the construction boss for El Commandante and the man who once turned out gridiron juggernauts for the Terrapins has done his usual masterful job. Because El Commandante is as modern as tomorrow's automobiles and as scenic as a picture postcard.

The mountain looms in the background and the ocean-front is only a mile away and can be seen from the sparkling white stable area. Stately palm trees girdle the track, which is on a four-lane highway on the outskirts of San Juan, and flame-red crotons, a native bloom, dot the bright green infield. There also is a large lake with a huge fountain which sends water cascading high into the air.

The one-mile track, with a seating capacity of 20,000, will operate three times weekly throughout the year and has stable room for 450 thoroughbreds. But this picture plant wasn't brought about without difficulty.

It originally was the brainchild of a Florida investment group which went broke. The new group then took over and figured that $2,500,000 would do the job. They were half right. It cost them $5,000,000. Then there was opposition from the two ancient racing plants which held a three-decade lock on the sport in Puerto Rico. This, too, finally was overcome.

But then the horsemen protested that the racing strip was unsafe and certain soft spots had to be dug up and replaced. And finally, to top it all off, after the horsemen were satisfied, it developed that one of the old trucks had a corner on the horse vans and refused to let the horsemen use them to shift their horses.

But El Commandante finally is ready—and from now on the sharks are going to find slim pickings at the beaches.

British Cyclists Launch New Drive To End Long Feud

By KEN METHERAL

LONDON (CP) — British racing cyclists have launched a new drive to end the 14-year feud between the sport's three governing bodies.

Spearheading the drive are a group of about 100 "independent" riders who are asking cyclists throughout the country to vote for amalgamation of the three organizations — the National Cyclists Union, the Road Time Trials Council and the British League of Racing Cyclists.

"We call ourselves 'independents' although it is really a misnomer," said a member of the group. "Our group includes members from all three organizations."

The feud dates back to 1942 when a group of riders broke away from the union and formed the league, with the announced intention of promoting road racing in Britain along the same lines as that found on the continent.

Up to that time mass-start road races had been frowned on in Britain on the grounds it would cause too much congestion on the country's narrow, winding roads. The union, cooperating with the expressed wishes of the ministry of transport, refused to sanction such races.

The dissident riders claimed the union's policy of concentrating on track races prevented British riders from obtaining the necessary training and experience to compete on equal terms with continental riders. And in 1942, with road traffic sharply reduced in wartime, they finally won government permission for mass-start races and formed the British League of Racing Cyclists.

But the league's 4,000 members soon ran into fresh trouble when they attempted to hold internationally-recognized races. The union, formed in 1878, is the only organization in Britain recognized by the Union Cycliste Internationale-world governing body of the sport.

The 7,000-member union, jealous of its position as the oldest cycling body in the country, refuses to yield any of its rights to the league, although it now officially approves of mass-start races.

Caught between the two feuding groups are the 6,000 members of the Road Time Trials Council, who race against the clock instead of each other.

"It is a real mess," said a council member. "Some of my chums are members of the league, others are in the union, and we never get a chance to compete against each other."

The group now pressing for amalgamation believe they hold a trump card for ending the feud. The ministry of transport has informed the cycling organizations that it would prefer to deal with a single organization, instead of three separate groups.

Since the end of the Second World War, mass-start races have escaped transport ministry disapproval by getting under way at dawn to escape peak-hour traffic.

'POP' MACKENZIE
. . . age no handicap

Bowling Roundup — By Jim Taylor

Amazing 'Pop' Mackenzie Wins Top City Fivepin Prize at 76

John "Pop" Mackenzie threw his first bowling ball when he was 64 years old. He'll be 76 next March, and he's still throwing them with an accuracy calculated to clean the pockets of many a 25-cent pot bowler in city fivepin alleys.

Mackenzie made his biggest killing this week when he rolled a 390 game to win the Capital City Bowladrome "Pot of Gold" competition, picking up spares in the second and fourth frames and striking in the rest to collect $50.

Rolling over 300 is not a rare occurrence for Mackenzie, who has averaged better than 200 every year he has bowled in league competition. He has held high average in the PTA league at Gibson's Bowladrome for the past three seasons, won the high three and high single awards last year, and at present has the high single score for this season.

His average, which he admits "might have slipped a little," is 209, a mark which would satisfy many a bowler one-third his age.

Mackenzie's feats are even more amazing when your consider that four years ago he was flat on his back in a cast at St. Joseph's Hospital. Today he has a disc missing in his back, and a trick knee that throws him off balance if he doesn't walk slowly and carefully to the foul line.

Mackenzie says, with only the slightest trace of pride in his voice, that if it wasn't such an expensive proposition, he could probably bowl with any team in the city. Most bowlers admit he is right.

"I guess I've always had the knack," he says. "I first walked into a bowling alley when I was 64. I rolled 167 in my first game, my second was 303, and I had another 300 game the same day. I got the bug then, and I've never stopped."

"When I was bowling in Alberni, there was a 300 club that awarded badges to bowlers who broke 300. I had so many I took to giving them away or sending them to friends in the Old Country."

His highest average was 235 in Alberni in 1947. His highest single game was in 1945 when he had a 428, starting with 10 straight strikes.

Now he bowls in two leagues and rolls in open play, amazing bowlers and alley-managers alike with his consistenily high averages. Nor has he any plans for quitting.

"I feel as good as ever," he says. "I once thought I'd quit when I got to be 80, but now I've changed my mind. I think maybe I'll wind it up when my average goes below 200, though."

The way he's bowling now, that won't be for some time to come.

* * *

Mackenzie was not the only high bowler at Capital City during the week, although he did finish with an 831 triple. Ken Smith had an 869 (381) series, followed by Bob McKnight, 844 (371); Wally Rogers, 835 (301); Doug Romkey, 829 (377); and Hal Ford, 736 (373).

At Esquimalt Bowladrome, Alex Pylypa was high man with 800 (301). Joan White, 775; Mel Fidess, 752; Frank Morgan, 742; Phil Young, 739; H. Young, 725, and J. Price, 716, were the other top bowlers.

A. Majorki led the mixed five-pin league at Gibson's Bowladrome with 760 (358), while May Wallis had a 747 series, and Cy Waters rolled 715.

* * *

Only tenpin action in the city during the week took place at Strathcona Bowling Alleys where Grand Spot News won the senior league first-half championship with a 35-10 record.

Members of the winning team were Dave Williams, Beaver Fell, Cec Dixon, Bud Falk, Bud Marty, and Bob Bystedt.

Gordie Rawnsley, with 563 (200) was the high bowler on the alleys. Roy Begg had the only other series of note, a 554 (202).

South Africans Need 344 Runs for Victory

CAPETOWN, South Africa (Reuters) — England, leading by 343 runs, seemed in a good spot to score a win at the end of the fourth day of play Friday with South Africa in the second cricket test match here.

Seeking to make it 2-0 in a five-match series, England declared at 220 for six wickets in its second innings, leaving South Africa enough time to make 41 runs while losing two wickets.

Today, the South Africans will either have to score 344 runs for a win, or else hang on to at least one of their remaining eight wickets for the rest of the day.

Going for runs Friday, England got off to a good start with Peter Richardson (46) and Trevor Bailey (28) making an opening stand of 74. Later, after Colin Cowdrey was stopped at 61 and Dennis Compton at 61, captain Peter-May declared, and South Africa came to bat after tea.

Brave Alice Loses Race After Fall, Swim, Gallop

WINDSOR, England (AP)—Brave Alice lost the Salt Hill steeplechase Friday in this ancient castle town but she had to go a long way and to a lot of trouble to do it.

Brave Alice was going well—at least over the first fence. At the second fence she came down, pitching her jockey into the brush.

The little mare got back on her feet bravely and passed the leaders, Buck's Fizz and Moonveron. Then Brave Alice failed to make the bend, and plunged into the bordering River Thames head-first.

The Thames was running fast and swept Brave Alice downstream out of sight of the race course.

A pedestrian was walking along the river bank when Brave Alice floated by. He dragged her out.

After whispering calmly to Brave Alice, he climbed into the saddle, crossed a bridge and rode her back to the race course.

With the crowd cheering, Brave Alice and her jockey finished last, 20 minutes after the race ended.

Moonveron was the winner, but Alice was no worse for her fall, swim and cross-country gallop.

Slumping Rangers, Hawks In TV Hockey Debut Today

NEW YORK (CP)—Television will take hockey into thousands of North American homes Saturday, and many viewers, particularly in the southern United States, will see their first hockey match.

The clash between New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks will be the first nationally televised hockey game and also the first daytime National Hockey League game in the history of Madison Square Garden.

Network officials said the response by mail has been far greater than that for a recent 10-game series of televised basketball games.

Victoria fans can watch on channels 11 and 12 starting at 11 a.m. this morning.

The game is the first of 10 Saturday afternoon games to be shown from New York, Boston, Detroit and Chicago.

Murray Patrick, Rangers' general manager, said there will be no censorship of rough stuff.

"The people will see what goes on," he said, "and we'll have the cameras on the action."

The program will be shown as far south as Miami, west to Tacoma, Wash., and California, and east to Boston.

New York, trying to break a fourth-place tie with Toronto Maple Leafs, may shake up its forward lines to bolster scoring punch.

Coach Phil Watson, who scolded his team Thursday for losing five of its last six games, may shift Andy Bathgate to right wing along with Larry Popein and Dean Prentice.

Rangers have dominated their series with Chicago so far this season, winning four games and tying two. Hawks, however, are showing considerable improvement after a slow start and have defeated every other team in the league at least once.

Next Saturday the TV game will find New York playing the high-flying Red Wings in Detroit.

Three Ships, 1,000 Men . . .

. . . To Travel 18,500 Miles

Far Lands Beckon Tars

They leave Esquimalt harbor Monday for 116 days of cruising 18,500 miles aboard the big training cruiser HMCS Ontario and the frigates HMCS Stettler and HMCS Jonquiere.

For 300 of the navy seamen advanced education will be provided for their promotion to a higher rank. Four hundred of them will be taught fire fighting, anti-gas precautions, defence against atomic radiation and other facets of "damage control." Others will receive training in other fields.

Before the ships return here May 3, the ships' companies will have had 16 days of the 116 in the various ports with three-quarters of the personnel getting ashore every day the ships are in port.

Cape Welland sails from Esquimalt harbor Monday. Ships of the Pacific Command will be joining her at sea to give the ships' companies a taste of what they will encounter when they get out of the white ensign in foreign ports.

The three ships will carry a full air group, one of which is carried immediately if any of the aircraft carriers should have to be sent to the Middle East.

Mail to any one of the ships should be addressed:

Rail Strike Idles 800 In One Mill

East-bound action on Vancouver Island of the paralyzing CPR strike was felt last night as more than 800 pulpwood and lumber workers at Port Alberni [illegible]

The plant has been closed down for three weeks, partly for a Christmas shutdown. One hundred and one employees were laid off in November and their hopes of returning to work were dashed by the announcement.

Spokesmen said they were "getting by" at present and would be able to do so for a certain length of time.

Sooke Fire Victim

Child Baptized In Hospital Cot

A Roman Catholic priest baptized "unconscious" [illegible] Anne Dupuche in a cot in the children's ward of St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday afternoon.

Beverley received second degree burns to her arms, face and body when her parents' home near Sooke was destroyed by fire Dec. 27. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Durocher lost two children—Geraldine, six months, and Harvey, two years, in the blaze.

The youngster's legs and arms were covered with bandages and tied down. She appeared to recognize her parents and cried when they left.

The drive to help the Durocher family is continuing. Last night the Sooke Women's Institute held a kitchen shower to provide kitchen utensils and food for the family and donations of money, clothes and furniture are still being collected.

Mrs. Myrtle Williamson, 912 Craigflower Road, and Mr. J. Keith Williamson, Okanagan Centre, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Helen Isobel, to Mr. James Donald McLeod, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. McLeod, Victoria. The wedding will take place Feb. 2 at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church by Dr. J. W. Mahood. Miss Williamson has chosen Miss Marion Williamson, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Dorothy Mergens as bridesmaid. Miss Barbara Williamson will be flower girl. The groom-elect is the son of Mr. Stuart McLeod and the late Mrs. McLeod.

Freshen Cake In Spirits

If there's fruitcake left from the holidays store it and use it late.

All it needs is a good soaking and it might surprise. The cake should be wrapped first in cheesecloth, then in plastic sheets, or a similar close wrap it tightly in foil or heavy wax paper. Put it in an airtight container and store in a cool place.

Civil Defence Talks

Diverse Experts To Attend Course

A four-day provincial civil defence orientation course outlining many problems in the different programs will open at University School here Monday.

Some 50 persons from all parts of British Columbia—in cluding [illegible] civil defence officers, [illegible] fire wardens, armed forces representatives, school principals, municipal officers and school board officers will attend.

The 39 out-of-town persons expected will live at the school while the course is in progress.

The course will begin with a defence centre at Mt. Newton and a lecture by Dr. G. M. Shrum, head of the UBC physics.

Brig. J. W. Bishop, B.C. army area commander, will speak on the armed forces' role in civil defence.

Other lecture topics will be decontamination, debris clearing, atomic, chemical and biological warfare, fire fighting and operations and control of evacuation.

University School between 7 and 9 p.m. Sunday. Classes will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

Man Who Blocked Social Credit Dies

EDMONTON (CP) — Hon. John C. Bowen, 84, a clergyman who served as lieutenant-governor of Alberta for 13 of the colorful early years of Social Credit government, died Wednesday.

Never a robust man, Mr. Bowen retired in 1950 because of poor health and during the last six years had spent many months under hospital care.

Mr. Bowen drew national attention when, only a few weeks after being sworn in as lieutenant-governor in 1937, he refused to give royal assent to bills passed by the Alberta legislature.

He referred the bills, which sought to impose regulations on newspapers, increase the tax on banks and regulate credit institutions, to the governor-general-in-council. All of them subsequently were ruled ultra vires of the legislature by the Supreme Court of Canada, and the early Social Credit government of the late William Aberhart failed in its appeals to the Privy Council.

'Live' A-Arms In Europe?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House refused Thursday to confirm or deny a published report that U.S. marines in the Mediterranean area are armed with "live" atomic artillery weapons. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, apparently after consultation with President Eisenhower, did say that the president "has given no authority for use of atomic or any other weapons in the Middle East."

He added that American forces in the Mediterranean are there "without reference to any specific nation."

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders for the general contract including all trades are invited by the Board of School Trustees of School District No. 65 (Cowichan) for the construction of a three-room school at Crofton, B.C. Envelopes shall be clearly marked "Tender for Tantor School" or "Tender for Crofton School" and/or "Combined Tender for new schools." Tenders may be submitted on the basis of a combined tender for two buildings or a separate bid on each project. Both projects must be completed not later than August 1st, 1957.

Working drawings and specifications may be obtained from the School Board Office, Canada Avenue, Duncan, B.C. or at the School Planning Division of the Department of Education, Victoria, B.C. on deposit of a certified cheque for fifty dollars ($25.00). For each set of working drawings and specifications which will be returned on receipt of said documents in good condition.

A certified cheque in the amount of ten per cent (10%) of the contract price drawn on a chartered Bank of Canada and made payable to the Board of School Trustees, School District No. 65 (Cowichan) must accompany each tender and shall be forfeited to the said Board in the event of the successful tenderer failing to enter into the contract if called upon to do so.

On award and signing of the contract the certified cheque shall forthwith be returned, within fourteen (14) days of the signing of the Contract, a guarantee bond in the sum of fifty per cent (50%) of the contract price covering the faithful performance and completion of the contract or receipt from the Crown will refund to the contractor his certified cheque for ten per cent (10%) of the tender.

Tenders must be delivered to the Secretary-Treasurer of the Board of School Trustees of School District No. 65 (Cowichan) at Canada Avenue, Duncan, B.C. by 4:00 p.m. January 24th, 1957. The lowest or any tenders not necessarily be accepted and the Board reserves the right to reject any or all tenders without explanation. No tenders having any qualifying clauses whatsoever will be considered.

James Dean Saves Long, Boring 'Giant'

By BRUCE LOWTHER

Everything about Texas is big, so it follows that a movie about Texas would be big.

"Giant," the three-hour and [illegible] her's novel about Texas, which opened at the Royal Theatre yesterday, can thank a fine performance by James Dean for barely saving it from being a big bore.

Never has a film dragged so slowly or taken so long to belabor the point. Never has a cast mumbled so much that half of the dialogue is lost.

The points in "Giant" are that you don't have to be born in Texas to like it, you don't have to be white to be human, and Hollywood's perennial you don't have to have power to be loved.

Texas cattleman Rock Hudson goes to Maryland to buy a horse and brings Elizabeth Taylor home. There, hired hand James Dean wants Miss Taylor and power, too. Unfortunately, he settles for power.

OIL, RICHES, DRINK

Dean strikes oil and buys out Hudson, but eventually drink does Dean in. Things look black until Hudson gets beaten up defending the Mexicans, which causes Miss Taylor to decide he's a real man and she's a real Texan.

Dean's change from clumsy cowhand to drunken despot is wonderfully done and Miss Taylor makes her role believable.

Rock Hudson displays ability befitting his name and most of the others could have been left out. Carroll Baker, whose latest, "Baby Doll," is causing so much talk, shows promise but that's all.

It's sad to see all this high-priced talent going to waste, but it's even sadder to think the only good actor in the bunch is dead.

PICTURE PREVIEW: "Friendly Persuasion," with Gary Cooper, is next at the Royal . . . Fox has "Unguarded Moment" Monday for a second run . . . Oak Bay shows "Black Tent" Monday . . . Next at the Capitol is Martin and Lewis' last, "Hollywood or Bust," starting Monday.

Two good ones at the Dominion next week—first, "Green Dolphin Street," then, "Bus Stop" . . . Plaza has two Kim Novak films Monday, "Five Against the House" and "Pushover" . . . and don't miss "Battle of the River Platte" at the Odeon.

Lettering Display Real Eye-Opener

By INA D. D. UHTHOFF

At this time last year the first of the B.C. Art Club shows was presented. It produced much work of interest from non-professional painters and justified its repetition.

Applications have been more numerous this year, making it necessary to limit the number of paintings from each district to three.

From Rossland comes the most notable contribution "Cliffs" by M. C. Armstrong. This is a mature work with a well-organized pattern of shapes and good color movement.

"Columbines" by W. George Doubt of Trail shows confidence in the use of paint and has pleasing color. June Haave of Comox is more adventurous in "Penguins in Stanley Park" which strikes a note of originality in its design.

The Cariboo entry, "Salmon Fishers' Noon Hour" by Sonia Cornwall uses figures quite successfully. White Rock is represented by a nice little painting "Glass Ball" by T. E. Inglis.

ALL-IMPORTANT

From a designer's point of view, typography is all-important, and for those who might be inclined to regard lettering as a dull subject, a visit to the collection which has been assembled by Louis Grenby, the Vancouver typographer, will be an eye-opener.

From the first known symbols, of 1,500 B.C. to the sophisticated use of lettering in the contemporary layout, the history and development is traced. From the hieroglyphics of the Egyptians to the hieratic with its more fluid stroke we are led through the stages of development to the Greek and Roman and finally the Gothic alphabets.

The use of the reed or quill pen is shown in cursive or written lettering as distinguishable from letters drawn by the stylus or pencil or cut out by chisel.

Early printing processes are demonstrated, while the well-planned use of color in modern page layouts brings one up-to-date and shows the high degree of skill required by the experienced typographer.

'Presley Taints Rock and Roll'

Elvis Presley and his like are the only things wrong with rock 'n' roll, according to the decision of 60 youths discussing the problem at a "teen-age rally" Thursday night.

According to the group, a dance of any type is harmless if well supervised. A person's intention in dancing is the only thing able to make it sinful.

Rock 'n' roll is objectionable to parents because they associate it with the teen-age idols of the craze.

The discussion group ended the two-day rally in First United Church attended by some 200 young people.

Panel assisting in the discussion on many phases of Christianity were Rev. R. J. Love, secretary of Christian education for the United Church; Rev. Howard Turpin, Shawnigan Lake; Rev. Doug Pilkey, Esquimalt United; Rev. Ibbs Avery, St. Aidan's; Rev. Laura Butler, Metropolitan and Rev. Tom Lancely, Belmont.

Tentative plans were made by the group to hold another rally during the schools' Easter holidays.

Probe Counsel Named Soon

Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd said yesterday an announcement on the appointment of counsel for the Royal Commission into the B.C. fruit industry was imminent.

He met yesterday with Prof. E. D. MacPhee, appointed to hear the evidence presented. The commission is due to start hearings by the end of the month.

Lebid Leads Witnesses

Michael Lebid has been appointed by the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society as supervisor of the Vancouver Island circuits of Jehovah's Witnesses.

He replaces Roy Strand who served for three years and who has now been appointed to a circuit in Ontario.

Mr. Lebid is a graduate of the "Gilead" Bible College at South Lansing, New York, and has served in circuits in Ontario, northern B.C. Saskatchewan and latterly in the Fraser Valley.

He addresses a public gathering at 7 p.m. Sunday in Kingdom Hall, 1312 Broad Street, on the subject, "Has God's Purposes for Mankind Failed?"

Conciliator Appointed

W. T. McLaughlin has been appointed conciliation officer in a wage dispute between the General Teamsters' Union, Local No. 885, and Stewart and Hudson Ltd., Victoria.

More than 20 employees of the firm working as far north as Port Alberni are asking a 14 cent-an-hour pay increase to $1.64 an hour.

CKDA Asks Delay Of CJVI Boost

Victoria radio station CKDA asked the CBC board of governors in Vancouver yesterday to defer action until its next meeting, in March, on the request of rival CJVI for a power boost to 10,000 watts from 5,000 watts.

CKDA president David Armstrong, whose similar application last year met technical objections, supported the CJVI request but asked for delay until he could submit a new brief.

He said CKDA suffers compared with CJVI's heavy signal strength, in the most heavily-populated area of Victoria, and urged that VJVI move its transmitter to a less-populated area.

Board will announce today its decision on the application, and on the request of CHUB, Nanaimo, and five other stations for the frequency of 1130 kilocycles, formerly held by the CBC.

J. Arthur Rank Presents
"THE MAGGIE"
Starring PAUL DOUGLAS with ALEX MACKENZIE, HUBERT GREGG, TOMMY KEARINS and an All Star Cast
One of the funniest comedies to come out of the Land of the Heather directed by the same man, Alexander MacKendrick, who gave us "Tight Little Island." When a high powered American business man tries to match wits with a dour Scot you can expect complications . . . When that Scot is the skipper of the "Maggie" —one of 50 odd "puffer" boats which ply the waters of the West Highlands—it becomes hilarious. How the American is brought under the soothing influence of the people who speak only the "Language of the Argyle" is our story. One you shouldn't miss on any account.

HI & LOIS

REX MORGAN

I WAS VERY MUCH IN LOVE WITH YOU, MARTHA! I GUESS I STILL AM--BUT THIS LOYALTY--THIS ATTACHMENT TO YOUR FATHER! I CAN'T TAKE IT ANY LONGER!
MARTHA, WHY DON'T YOU SEE AN ATTORNEY?--AND HAVE HIM COMMITTED?
NO!
I CAME HERE HOPING THAT YOU COULD HELP ME, MAL! BUT ALL YOU SAY IS "GET RID OF HIM!" HE'S MY FATHER! CAN'T YOU UNDERSTAND THAT? IT'S UP TO ME TO TAKE CARE OF HIM!

ARCHIE

IT'S THE NEW "LOVERS' LEAP" LIPSTICK! I'M GOING TO BE THE FIRST TO INTRODUCE ARCHIE TO IT!
IF YOU WANT "LUVVERBOY" TO RUN SMACK FACE TO FACE WITH IT...
YOU'D BETTER LAUNCH YOUR LIPS FAST! I SAW VERONICA BUYING SOME, TOO!
OH, DEAR! I'LL CALL ARCHIE RIGHT UP!
HE'S COMING OVER!
THAT'S WORKING FAST!
GUESS WHO I RAN INTO!

MARY WORTH

SO MR. STOVER SAID YOU WERE A NATURAL-BORN HORSEWOMAN, PIPPA?
YEAH!--GOLLY, CAMEO! I DON'T SEE HOW YOU CAN LOOK UP INTO THOSE BIG BROWN EYES AND THINK ABOUT CURTAINS AND CARPETS!
I TOLD HIM HE'D BETTER PUT BLINDERS ON ME--INSTEAD OF THE HORSE --THIS AFTERNOON!
MOTHER, I'M GOING TO WORK! IF YOU NEED ME FOR ANY...
I'M SURE YOU HAVE THE WRONG ADDRESS YOUNG MAN! NOBODY HERE ORDERED THAT!

BEETLE BAILEY

CAPTAIN, A BULLET RICOCHETED AND HIT SARGE RIGHT IN THE CHEST!
GOSH! HOW IS HE?
HE'S PRETTY SORE!
JUST SORE? GOLLY HE'S LUCKY!
THAT'S WHAT WE TOLD HIM, BUT HE'S STILL SORE!

POGO

POGO SAYS YOU BEEN IN HIS BED SINCE LAST SATURDAY.
YUP.
WHAT SEEMS TO BE THE TROUBLE?
WELL, THE MAIN THING IS I CAN'T REACH THE COOKIE JAR.
MAYBE YOU NEEDS REST... YOU DON'T LOOK SICK.
SICK? WHO'S SICK? I AIN'T SICK.
CAN'T A SOUL OVERSLEEP A LITTLE WITHOUT BEIN A SOCIAL LEOPARD?
MADAM!

KERRY DRAKE

BETTER HOT-PACK THAT KNEE TONIGHT, "NIPPER"! I'D HATE TO HAVE YOU OUT OF THE LINE-UP AGAINST CENTRAL!
I'LL BE RARIN' TO GO BY TOMORROW NIGHT, COACH!
HI, "NIPPER"! WANT TO COME OVER AND STUDY? I'VE GOT SOME NEW ROCK N' ROLL RECORDS!
GOSH! I'D LIKE TO, CRICKEY, BUT I HAVE TO TURN IN EARLY TONIGHT!
THAT'S OUR BOY, SAMMY! GET THE CAR AND TRAIL US!

BLONDIE

COOKIE WANTS YOU TO HELP HER WITH HER ARITHMETIC HOMEWORK!
I'M NOT GOOD AT ARITHMETIC TO! THAT WAS MY WEAKEST SUBJECT AT SCHOOL!
I'M HAVING TROUBLE WITH THE THIRD PROBLEM
THE AUDITORIUM IS 22.5x9.2x12 SQUARE YARDS
WHY DADDY, A GENIUS LIKE YOU SHOULD GET THAT SO QUICKLY!
HEE HEE HA HA! MATHEMATICAL MAGIC!
I'LL NEVER FORGET THAT ANSWER AS LONG AS I LIVE!
I HAD TO WRITE IT ON THE BLACKBOARD TWO HUNDRED TIMES WHEN I WAS A KID

JUDGE PARKER

YOU ADMIT DRIVING THE CAR THAT HIT THE CHILD, BOB?
YES. BUT IT WAS AN ACCIDENT ... AND CINDY WAS WITH ME WHEN IT HAPPENED!
HOW ABOUT IT, CINDY?
I... I...
DON'T YOU SAY ANYTHING! WE'RE GETTING A LAWYER! YOU'RE SAYING NOTHING UNTIL WE GET A LAWYER!
I'M HOLDING BOTH CINDY AND BOB, MRS. CARROWAY. YOU HAD BETTER CALL AN ATTORNEY!

BEN BOLT

DON'T FORGET TO WATCH THE JIMMY BOYER SHOW--MY BOY IS PRACTICALLY THE STAR!
YOU MUST BE SO PROUD OF HIM, ANN!
I GUESS IT'S MORE OF A WONDERFUL FEELING OF ACCOMPLISHMENT THAN PRIDE, MARIAN.
YOU LEARN TO SHARE YOUR CHILD'S PAIN--AND HIS TRIUMPHS!
ONE CHORUS--ONE ROTTEM CHORUS!
HOW DID THESE CREEPS EVER GET WHERE THEY ARE? NO TASTE, NO TALENT, NO NOTHING!

RIP KIRBY

SIR, I SWEAR I DID NOT PULL THAT TRIGGER...
UNDER GREAT TENSION, DESMOND, WE SOMETIMES DO THINGS WE DON'T REMEMBER...
LOOK AT THE EVIDENCE. YOU'RE STANDING THERE WITH A GUN. ONE BULLET HAS BEEN FIRED FROM IT, AND A MAN IS DEAD...
AND I KNOW THE BULLETS MATCH IN A BALLISTICS TEST--BUT I'M INNOCENT!
HA! HA! THIS IS TERRIFIC! I DON'T GET KIRBY BUT I GOT HIS PAL DESMOND. THAT'S ALMOST AS GOOD...
YOU'RE A WIZARD, JOHNNY--

DAVID CRANE

IF MARY LIVES, PARSON, I'LL TAKE CARE OF HER AND HER BABY AS LONG AS I LIVE!
GOD BLESS YOU, JOCK!
WHY, MISS CARRIE, WHAT ARE YOU DOING HERE?
I CAME OVER TO SEE HOW MARY IS... AND TO ASK IF I COULD PLAY SOME OF MY RECORDS FOR HER WHEN SHE'S BETTER!

LIL ABNER

AH RUN YO' OUTA TOWN ONCE, HANG McCALL, RO UPSETTIN' OUR YOUNG GALS AN' STOPPIN' OUR COWS FUM GIVIN' MILK--
AN' AH KIN DO IT AGIN!!
DON'T SHOOT!
--OR YOU'LL DAMAGE A TEN-MILLION-DOLLAR PROPERTY!!
OH, NO, SUH!! AH WON'T DAMAGE NOTHIN' PUT HAWG!!
BUT, THAT'S THE TEN-MILLION-DOLLAR PROPERTY, YOU IMBECILE! HIS VOICE!!

JULIE JONES

LUGGAGE
WHAT DO YOU MEAN, MY DEAR--YOU MAY NOT COME BACK?
OH, I'LL COME BACK TO VISIT YOU, MISS PANKY--I DIDN'T MEAN I WOULDN'T EVER SEE YOU AGAIN!
I MEANT THAT I MIGHT NOT BE WORKING FOR DEVON DEPARTMENT STORE AFTER--AFTER I GET A JOB SOMEWHERE ELSE...
YOU MEAN IN THE CITY, CHILD?
OF COURSE--AND DON'T YOU THINK I CAN'T, EITHER!
NO, DEAR, I SINCERELY THINK YOU CAN!

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

(a) Pass. Your diamonds are not quite strong enough for a pre-emptive raise considering that South may possibly have a three-card suit. Defensively, you can expect that the opponents will be unable to make game, so you should not court a penalty.

(b) Two diamonds. This is somewhat of a trap bid; actually, you are trying to lure your opponents into a high bid in a major suit, while at the same time you are endeavoring to shut out the clubs.

(c) Two spades. One spade would be an underbid with this hand, yet game will depend upon partner being able to furnish some slight support for your spade suit.

(d) This is the hand that rates the bid of one spade. Remember that your side is vulnerable; you should not make a takeout bid, even over a double, with less.

(e) Pass. Your spade suit, and your hand over all, is far to weak for any bid.

(f) Redouble. Your hand surely represents the balance of power. You are too strong to bid only two spades over the double; you are also too weak in diamonds to pass and court a possible leave-in by the other players. Your redouble does not promise diamond support, but promises a good hand and will let you take it easy later in the auction when you show your spade suit.

Poland Names 'Brain Trust'

WARSAW (AP) — The government Wednesday named Vice-Premier Stefan Jedychowski to head a 25-man "brain trust" aimed at rescuing Poland from its economic crisis.

Other members still to be named are reported to include Oskar Lange, former professor of economics and statistics at Chicago University, and Czeslaw Bobrowski, internationally-known economist who returned to Poland this week after years of exile in France.

The "brain trust" is successor to the vast state planning commission which was dissolved last fall as part of the process toward greater democracy.

STRATEGIC AREA

The independent republic of Syria has a population of 4,000,000 in an area of 72,000 square miles.
